

Brazilians in Dialogue Between the University and the Prison

AUTHOR Karina Biondi (Ed)
COLLECTION EDITED BY Baz Dreisinger

COLLECTION

Incarceration Nations Network

EDITION

1st edition

MARKET

College/higher education and Professional and scholarly

This course reading...

- Offers authentic insights from individuals with firsthand prison experience.
- Utilizes innovative training methods from a project at the State University of Maranhão, Brazil.
- Emphasizes the significance of convict perspectives in analyzing crime and punishment.
- Valuable for a broad audience, including students, scholars, and practitioners in related fields.

Are you interested in exploring a unique perspective on crime and punishment?

Karina Biondi's groundbreaking book is the result of an extension project at the State University of Maranhão, Brazil. It offers training for individuals inside and outside the prison system to produce and systematize their knowledge about prison life. Aligned with the principles of Criminology of Convicts, this book emphasizes that those who have lived the prison experience are best positioned to analyze and discuss it.

Through a series of insightful chapters, readers are invited to delve into the rich reflections and analyses developed during these training sessions. This book not only contributes significantly to the fields of Carceral studies, Social Sciences, Law, Education, Criminology, and Latin American Studies but also underscores the importance of investing in the intellectual growth of those who have firsthand prison experience.

This book is ideal for scholars, educators, and practitioners involved in Convict Criminology, as well as for prisoners and individuals working in prison education. Its unique approach provides invaluable insights and fosters a deeper understanding of the complexities surrounding crime and punishment.

Karina Biondi is a Professor at the State University of Maranhão (UEMA), where she leads the Laboratory of Studies in Political Anthropology (LEAP) and the Outra Visão Project.

Consumer print and ebook pricing available on the LPP website.

Institutional print and ebook pricing available through your chosen library vendor.

This title is available as part of the LPP Library collection. For pricing, inquire at contact@livedplacespublishing.com.